Things to do in San Francisco - Part 40 - GoCar Rentals

Yahoo Travel says this about GoCar Rentals:

We've come a long way since Henry Ford invented the Model-T. Hop into a GoCar for a spin around San Francisco and see just how far you can go. Catch all the attractions and experience all the fun of the City by the Bay without the confusion of maps or the inflexibility of organized tours. Utilizing state-of-the-art GPS (Global Positioning System) locator technology, GoCars take you from the Bay to the Pacific and around the neighborhoods, parks, and famous landmarks of the City. While driving, the talking cars tell you exactly when and where to go and provide historical information and plenty of fun facts. Weave your way throughout the streets of San Francisco and see everything from tourist-laden Fisherman's Wharf to spectacular views of the Golden Gate Bridge, Lombard Street, Fort Mason, Haight-Ashbury, Golden Gate Park, Union Street Shopping District and so much more. The little yellow car even navigates you through areas prohibited by tour buses including the ritzy Seacliff neighborhood and areas of the Presidio. The best part of the GoCar adventure is being able to discover the City at your own pace. Stop to take pictures, grab a bite to eat, or take in a museum at your leisure. Feel free to spend anywhere from an hour to an entire day zipping around town in your talking 3-wheeled car. GoCars are an adventure the whole family will enjoy, and both visitors and Bay Area residents will love the unique and entertaining experience. There is no better way to see San Francisco! To rent a GoCar, you must be a licensed driver and 18-years-old. A GoCar costs $39.99 for the first hour, $29.99 for the second and $20 for each additional hour. After 5 hours, there are no additional charges. Reservations are required. Be sure to call or reserve online well in advance. There is a second location in Union Square at: 321 Mason St (at corner of Mason & O'Farrell).

Neighborhood: Fisherman's Wharf
